“ She was and always will be my big Sister. I don't know how many times she reminded me of changing my diaper. and how I always teased her boys. We were always welcomed at any time. I have to recognize her for getting Connie and I together and almost 50 years we still are, good pick sister. The best time we had is when we took her to Charleston SC for vacation. She never stopped talking about that trip the southern food and Natalie and Paul's hospitality. And she learned to eat crab legs. I miss you Big Sis and will always love you

“ One of the most cherished memories I shared with my grandma is when she came to visit us in California. I remember her sleeping on my trundle bed, sharing my room with me, spending several nights laughing, and carrying on throughout the evenings (when I should have been sleeping in my bed). Most nights we talked about school, my friends, and how I liked California and boys... but then came Sunday night. Every Sunday the radio station was hosted by Art Lebow and his Killer Oldies Show, I loved this radio station and program! Grandma laughed at me, asking if I liked it, and was shocked when I said I did, I very much liked the music and the radio program, listening to it each weekend until moving back to Alaska.

As we listened, Grandma began to reminisce about listening to this music when she was a young woman, sharing memories with me as the songs played. I sang those that I knew and she listened and cheered me on; although I am not much of a singer. We had a wonderful time the week that he came to visit, but this night, in particular, was beyond special. We listened to the entire show and before long I was fast asleep.

It wasn't until I was older that I thought back to that memory and how much it meant to me. That time we spent together each evening chatting and listening to the radio was a lot of fun, a time when we built a lasting bond as Grandmother and Grand Daughter. Over the last few weeks, this memory is one I have thought of quite often and will surely be a memory that I will always cherish and hold near to my heart!

Grandma Bendle was loved, I enjoyed her company and she will be forever missed. However, the memories we have will be shared for years to come with family and friends. I love you, Grandma, I truly enjoyed the time we had together, you have always been special to me, and I will miss you!
